Sponsorship Opportunities

Social Venture Institutes

Since 1996, Social Venture Institutes (SVI) have offered leaders of social purpose businesses and nonprofits a forum in which to air their business problems and receive advice and mentoring by leading members of SVN.

Founded by Gary Hirshberg, President and CEO of Stonyfield Farm, SVI was designed to provide an interactive and affordable way for social entrepreneurs to explore ways to succeed as socially conscious ventures. The combination of high quality mentors, a confidential and supportive environment, and a practical problem-solving format, enables participants to acquire a rich portfolio of skills, a plan to grow their social purpose organization, and a network of contacts to support their enterprise.

Since SVI was launched in 1996, thousands of entrepreneurs have attended SVIs. Based on evaluations and testimonials, participants uniformly reflect that SVI is one of the best investments they've made in growing their social purpose enterprises.

SVN's Mission

To build a just economy and sustainable planet through business.

"I've had an intense business and personal growth experience... I was simply not prepared for such a robust, heart-felt, and large set of benefits."

- Anna Marks, 2005 SVI participant

An SVI Specifically for Women

With an increasing number of women at the helm of successful enterprises, now is the time for women business leaders to engage with each other about the unique opportunities and challenges they face. The Gathering of Women Entrepreneurs is a unique forum is designed specifically for women who are familiar with socially responsible business practices and have the desire to develop additional expertise and connect with a community of women entrepreneurs.

Audience Breakdown

In addition to building recognition throughout SVN's network, your business gains broad exposure in the socially responsible business marketplace, through our conference promotions that reach media partners, partner organizations, other socially responsible business conference attendees, and business leaders and consumers who visit our website. The end result is valuable visibility to thousands of key business decision-makers and consumers.
